How does it work?

The fundamental concept behind Anseo Secondary is that the onus is on each student to prove their attendance by the use of a student identification card as they enter their school. This enables administrators to follow up on non-attendance and punctuality in great detail, leading to a better level of accuracy in attendance records.

- > Each student has an identification card containing their name, date-of-birth, student number and photograph
- > Each morning and afternoon the student passes their card through scanning devices located at school entrance points
- > Without any further data entry or processing, the school attendance administrator can print attendance, absenteeism and punctuality reports.

Eliminates tedious paperwork

What are the benefits?

Saves time

- > Eliminates tedious and time-consuming paperwork associated with manual or semi-manual roll call systems
- > Removes the responsibility for recording attendance from teaching and administration staff
- > Saves time and reduces effort with quick access to absence and punctuality lists each morning and afternoon
- > Eliminates class disruption associated with manual roll calls.

Increased accuracy

- > Accurately monitors attendance, absenteeism and punctuality in a fast efficient way
- > More time to follow up on absenteeism
- > Integrates with the school's internal administration system e.g. facility minimising data entry and duplication
- > Allows for a 'Spot Check' on the scanner to ensure that each student is scanning using his or her card only.

Monitors student performance

- > Analysis of data for the identification of attendance trends on an individual or class basis
- > Anseo Secondary will flag and notify staff of students who have ongoing issues with non attendance or punctuality allowing you to concentrate your efforts on those most in need.

Improves communication with parents

- > Keep parents up to date instantly with their child's record or school events through text messaging and email. Huge time and cost savings available.

Health & safety

- > Track students as they enter or leave the school during the school day. Whether they leave on a school activity or medical appointment Anseo Secondary will instantly show:
 - Who is in the school at any time
 - Who has left the school
 - Full audit trail of students entering or exiting the building

Saves time & effort

Who produces the Identification cards?

We design and produce identification cards to the specific requirements of your school. School crests, slogans, colourways etc. can all be incorporated onto the card. During the production process, we take photos of all your students and provide you with a printed catalogue of these photos for use with Anseo.

ID cards are produced to the highest standards to ensure reliability and durability within the school environment.

What is Anseo Secondary?

Anseo Secondary is an automated attendance management system, designed by Ivertec, a leading Irish developer of information management software and services.

Through the effective and innovative use of technology, it is designed to save time and reduce the effort in collecting, maintaining and analysing student attendance records. With the introduction of the Education and Welfare Act in 2000, Anseo Secondary has progressively developed to accommodate the additional tasks this piece of legislation requires.

Through the cooperation and assistance of many schools throughout the country, Anseo Secondary is now the market leader in school attendance systems in Ireland.
